PREFACE

THE New Champion Spelling Book preserves the general plan and organization of the original Champion Spelling Book, which has met the enthusiastic approval of teachers, principals, and superintendents throughout the country.

Since its publication, however, many new words have come into use, and many investigations have been made and books published on the subject of spelling vocabularies by such specialists as Ayres, Cook and O'Shea, Pryor, and Suzzallo. The Champion Spelling Book has therefore been made over so far as necessary to incorporate the additional words that need to be taught, and to omit a corresponding number of words that are less needed.

In resetting the book for this purpose, the opportunity has been taken to make various other changes, especially in the grading of words and in the grading and arrangement of the supplementary exercises. The length of the book has been increased by a few pages in order to incorporate a considerably larger number of dictation exercises.

The course, as before, includes six sections, each designed for a year's work. The intensive teaching of two new words daily and the employment of spelling contests, making drill and review effective, are the prominent features in the new book as in the old, as explained in the following pages. It was by these methods that Cleveland boys and girls were prepared to win their famous victory in the National Education Association spelling contest; hence the name of this book.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS

Intensive Teaching. — This book presents about 1200 words each year, and teaches 312 of them with clearness and intensity. Two words are made prominent in each lesson. Their pronunciation, division into syllables, oral and written spelling, and meaning are all to be made clear to pupils. (Full diacritic marking will be found in the alphabetical list at the end of each year's work.) The prominent words are to be used in sentences made by the pupils. Center your energy on securing mastery of these two words; the eight subordinate words of each lesson are review words or not difficult — although you should make sure that the meaning of each is understood. Use the markings only to establish pronunciation; write the word always as a whole, without markings or division into syllables; drill much on enunciation of vowel sounds; establish the power to use the dictionary; frequently make the recitation a combination of oral and written work. These processes contribute much to the plan of intensive teaching.

Systematic Drill. — Systematic review is provided throughout the book. Each of the ten prominent words taught intensively in a week is listed as a subordinate word within the next two weeks; included in a spelling contest at the end of eight weeks; again in the annual contest at the end of the school year; and again as a subordinate word in the following year's work; — used five times, in all, within two years. Eighteen hundred and seventy-two words often misspelled are, in this manner, intensively taught and effectively reviewed.

Spelling Contests. — The contests, when properly conducted, stimulate the schools to their highest effort. They are more effective than the spelling bee or the spell-down. The contest requires all pupils to write all the words given, and in addition all other words which the pupils have actually misspelled. After this is done, the papers are collected and the words are spelled orally. Record is made of oral errors. The papers are then marked and teachers report as follows:

1. The number of pupils taking part in the contest.
2. The total number of words misspelled in the oral contest.
3. The total number of words misspelled in the written contest.
4. The total number of errors in both.
5. The average number of errors per pupil taking part.
6. The number of pupils making no errors.

The average number of errors is posted in the schoolroom. It may be reported to the principal or superintendent, and comparisons made between the same grades of a school, the same grades of different schools, the different grades of the same school, all grades of all schools. Grades and schools may learn their rank in the community, and trace the record to girls and boys who are responsible. Thus, all join with the public in a worthy effort for improvement, centering effort on the poorer spellers.

Other Features. — It is important that the dominant plan of the book be followed closely, by teaching intensively two new words daily. The subordinate words will be found arranged in helpful groupings. The supplementary lessons will serve as aids in teaching sounds of vowels, homonyms, rules of spelling, contracted forms, abbreviations, suffixes, prefixes, use of hyphens, plurals, dictation work, and word building. The words used in the National Education Association contest are given at the end of Section VI.

Special Suggestions. — Spelling papers should be corrected in the recitation period and emphasis given to the correct spelling of the words misspelled. Oral spelling should move with snap. Each pupil should have but one trial on a word. The meaning of the word should always be made clear, either by using it in a sentence, or by definition, or by giving a synonym or the antonym, or by illustration with object, action, or drawing.

The Hundred Demons. — Among the prominent words presented for intensive teaching are all of those which were selected by Professor W. Franklin Jones of the University of South Dakota as the hundred most troublesome words in the English language. They are often referred to as the "Hundred Spelling Demons." The system of this book provides for sufficient teaching and review of these words, but they are listed below so that the teacher may, if desired, give them special attention.

Ayres Measuring Scale. — The thousand words included by Leonard P. Ayres in his "Measuring Scale for Ability in Spelling" are those which he found to be the thousand words most frequently used. They range from words of extreme difficulty in spelling to words which offer no spelling difficulty whatever. Therefore in this book some of these thousand words are intensively taught as prominent words, and others appear only as subordinate words or in supplementary exercises. A few words which are learned before the pupil begins the formal study of spelling, or words which present no difficulty in spelling, are omitted from the book except as they occur incidentally in dictation exercises. For the convenience of teachers who may wish to review the spelling of these few easiest words, the following list presents the words of the Ayres Measuring Scale which are not included in the formal lessons or word lists of this book:[1]

am	five	I	miss	she
an	fix	if	my	six

[1] In accordance with Webster's New International Dictionary, this book has inclose spelled with the initial i instead of the alternative form "enclose" which appears in the Ayres Scale.

Webster's New International Dictionary is followed as the standard authority in spelling, syllabication, and pronunciation. To avoid confusing the pupil, only the preferred spelling or pronunciation is given in the case of words that may be spelled or pronounced in more than one way.

1. Final y, preceded by a vowel, is retained before any suffix.[1] Examples: *play*ed, *play*ful, *monkey*s, *obey*ing.

2. Final y, preceded by a consonant, is retained before a suffix beginning with i, but is changed to i before any other suffix.[2] Examples: *dry*ing, *copy*ist; *dri*ed, *dri*es, *countri*es, *lazi*er, *lazi*ly.

3. Final e is retained before a suffix beginning with a consonant.[3] Examples: *love*ly, *move*ment, *wire*less.

4. Final e is usually dropped before a suffix beginning with a vowel.[4] Examples: *lov*ing, *mov*able, *notic*ing, *chang*ing. BUT:

5. In endings ce and ge, final e is retained before a suffix beginning with a or o. Examples: *notice*ably, *change*able, *outrage*ous.

6. In endings oe and ee, final e is retained before any suffix except one beginning with e. Examples: *hoe*ing, *shoe*ing, *see*ing; *free*r.

7. Final ie is changed to y before a suffix beginning with i. Examples: *dy*ing, *ly*ing.

8. Monosyllables and words accented on the last syllable, ending in a single consonant preceded by a single vowel, double the final consonant on taking a suffix beginning with a vowel.[5] Examples: *stop*ping, *regrett*able, *preferr*ed, *transferr*ing, *excell*ent.

9. Words do not double a final single consonant on taking a suffix beginning with a vowel, if the final consonant is preceded by two vowels, or if the word is accented on any syllable except the last.[6] Examples: *moan*ing, *travel*ing.

[1] Exceptions: daily, laid, paid, said, saith, slain.

[2] Exceptions: dryly, dryness, shyly, shyness, slyly, slyness; beauteous, piteous, bounteous, plenteous, duteous.

[3] Exceptions: abridgment, acknowledgment, judgment, lodgment, argument, awful, duly, duty, truly, wholly, nursling, wisdom.

[4] Exceptions: acreage, mileage, singeing, tingeing, dyeing, and words covered by rules 5, 6, and 7.

[5] Exceptions: gases, gaseous; chagrined; preferable, transferable, preference, and other derivatives of words ending in -fer, with suffixes other than ed and ing. Final x is never doubled.

[6] Exceptions: cancellation, tranquillity, woolly; derivatives of crystal, metal, humbug, and periwig, as crystallize, metallic, humbugged, etc. In quizzing, equipped, and other such words, the u is not really a vowel.

Suggestion: Effective review may be secured by the frequent use of two or three pages of Sections III, IV, and V for oral drill, without previous preparation on the part of the pupils. Note any word misspelled and bring it forward into daily use until its spelling is mastered by all pupils. This follow-up process should be carried out with all words that are misspelled in written work.

[1] Lessons numbered in this manner are to be given Mondays.

Suggestion: Reviews of the supplementary exercises in Sections I, II, III, IV, and V will be of service to pupils. Frequent drill may be needed on some exercises. Much care is required in establishing intelligent use of the dictionary. How many pupils are sure that they enunciate the short sounds of vowels correctly? How many are sure that they recognize these sounds when the teacher enunciates them? Daily attention to this work will be of special assistance to careless, backward spellers.

On Washington's principles, and under the guidance of his example, will we and our children uphold the Constitution. . . . It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, — that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

— LINCOLN, "Gettysburg Address."

There are men of esprit who are excessively exhausting to some people. They are the talkers who have what may be called jerky minds. Their thoughts do not run in the natural order of sequence. They say bright things on all possible subjects, but their zigzags rack you to death. After a jolting half-hour with one of these jerky companions, talking with a dull friend affords great relief. — HOLMES.

In point of all-round development, Franklin must stand as the foremost American. The one intent of his mind was to purify his own spirit, to develop his intellect on every side, and make his body the servant of his soul. Hence, of all people, children are the most imaginative. They abandon themselves without reserve to every illusion. Every image which is strongly presented to their mental eye produces on them the effect of reality. No man, whatever his sensibility may be, is ever affected by Hamlet or Lear, as a little girl is affected by the story of poor Red Riding Hood. She knows that it is all false, that wolves cannot speak, that there are no wolves in England. Yet, in spite of her knowledge, she believes; she weeps; she trembles; she dares not go into a dark room lest she should feel the teeth of the monster at her throat. Such is the despotism of the imagination over uncultivated minds. — MACAULAY.
